

In this section you will find information about some of the occupational and professional groups.

College of Health Care Chaplains is a multi-faith, interdenominational, professional organisation. It is open to all recognised healthcare Chaplaincy staff, both paid and voluntary, and to those with an interest in healthcare Chaplaincy.

Unite represents all workers in healthcare science groups, covering a wide range of roles, in: biomedical science, pathology, physiological measurement, clinical engineering, genetics, blood and transplant services, medical physics, perfusion, phlebotomy, cardiology, forensics, technical areas, audiology, ophthalmics, research, administration and clerical teams

Community Nursing and Health Visitors Society, the UK's leading professional organization for health visitors, school nurses, nursery nurses and other community nurses working in primary care.

the UK's leading professional organisation for Speech and Language professionals

The Support Services Organising Professional Committee is to support representatives who work in non clinical roles, such as IT, catering, cleaning, portering and administration

450 Sexual Health Advisers around the country have joined forces to form SSHA which equates to approximately 90% of all Sexual Health Advisers in the UK and Ireland. Together as a member organisation we can influence the direction of our profession at a clinic, regional and national level.

The Guild of Healthcare Pharmacists exists to defend the interests of its individual members

To provide professional and clinical support for qualified and ancillary staff to ensure that the voice of the profession is heard

MHNA's aim is to provide professional and clinical support for qualified and student mental health nurses to ensure that the voice of the profession is heard.

Represents all workers and trainees in counselling and psychotherapy roles, including counsellors, high intensity therapists, family therapists, primary care graduate mental health workers, psychological wellbeing practitioners and psychotherapists.