

Care of the Elderly

Relevant articles from MA Healthcare journals to support your staff's education and practice

October 2017

With the UK's rapidly aging population, healthcare professionals within the NHS are facing an increasing number of complex health conditions relating to the health and care of elderly people. The more common conditions affecting older patients are cardiovascular disease, dementia, Alzheimer's, diabetes, and cancer. Frailty is also a major issue with the increase in the number of bone fractures resulting from falls and accidents. Mental health is just as important, with loneliness and isolation having an additional impact on the health of elderly people today.

This month MA Healthcare is raising awareness about the importance of right care of the elderly, so that they can receive the high-quality health and social care they need in order to live happy and healthy lives.

We have provided a list of relevant articles from MA Healthcare journals dealing with this area, thereby providing your NHS staff with research, information and tips that will support both their work and their patients.
